

S.L. Rubinstein's view on the development of self-consciousness of personality at the vital way

J.V. Scheblykina

Post-graduate student, Assistant of the psychology department at the International University of nature, society and human «Dubna» scheblykina@mail.ru

The content and the ratio of concepts «consciousness», «self-consciousness» and «personality» are defined from the point of view of the subject-activity approach. We analyze the Rubinstein's view on the problem of becoming of self-consciousness of personality in ontogenesis.

Keywords: S.L. Rubinstein, the subject, consciousness, self-consciousness, personality, a life.